As we continue past the first few months of "life with Covid-19," we have made several changes in our office and office procedures to try to make our patient's experience even more safe and continue quality care. Most of these changes will remain in place and may very well become permanent.

Currently we are trying to streamline exposure to others by not having the waiting rooms open, and grouping non-contagious visits together in the mornings and early afternoons, while grouping possible contagious visits together in the later afternoons.

We also stopped Saturday "walk-in" hours, as we could not adequately manage patient flow and possible exposures with adequate staffing to keep our patient's safe. After much deliberation, we just can not find a way to make that experience safe enough for everyone involved. Therefore we will not continue to offer the Saturday "ill" visit time now or in the future.

Please continue to follow social distancing, hand washing, and especially mask wearing in public to keep you and your families safe.
